CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Benjamin pre sented the resolutions of the legislature of Louisiana upon the subject of the Africanization of Cuba, which, after some debate by referred to the Committee on Foreign Rela-

The Nebraska bill was then taken up. Mr Pearce moved, what is known as the Clayton amendment, to exclude unnaturalized foreigners from the right of suffrage in the Territories The amendment was supported by Messrs. Pearce, Brodhead, Badger, Butler, and Bell and opposed by Messrs. Atchison, Pettit, Hunter, Walker, Toombs, and Pratt. No question was taken before the adjournment.

The House of Representatives postponed the special order, the Pacific railroad bill, until to-day, and then went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union on the amendments of the Senate to the deficiency bill Without concluding action thereon, the Committee rose, and the House adjourned.

By a typographical error, we were ves terday made to say that the number of members from the free States who did not vote for the bill was 1. It should have been 11.

Nor did we mean to say that all but two of meant to say that but two voted against it.

A SIGNIFICANT FACT. Of the seventy-four whigs in the House of Representatives, only thirteen voted for the Nebraska bill-not one of whom was from the free States.

Of the one hundred and sixty democrats, one hundred voted for the bill-of whom fortyfive were from the free States, and fifty-five from the slave States.

The question arising on this state of facts is, which, as a party organization, is truest to the Constitution and to the country, the whig or the democratic party? That question is easily answered. No one can deny that the palm belongs to the democracy.

We would not, however, by any reason, disparage those gallant whigs from the south, who, despite the unbroken front presented against them by northern whiggery, and, despite the division in their own ranks at the south, came out gallantly, nobly, and manfully, in support of the Nebraska bill. They deserve much eredit, and we cheerfully accord it to

THE HOWLS OF THE ABOLITIONISTS. The Louisville Journal, an anti-Nebraska paper, administers a well-deserved rebuke to those enemies of the bill who exhibited a disposition to defeat it by factious proceedings, and who threaten violence in the event of its passage. It lectures the New York Tribune on account of its frantic efforts to lash the masses of the north into a tempest of excitement. We fear that the Journal and the few other papers of the south who arrayed themselves against this measure will have ample cause to repent of the company in which they placed themselves. Not only is that run mad journal, the Tribune exhibiting all the ferocity of a mad dog, but it has communicated its madness to papers hitherto esteemed discreet and well disposed.

The Albany State Register, a whig journal high in the confidence of the whigs of the north-that branch of the party known as the silver grays-has become as frantic and as violent as the rankest abolitionist in the whole north. This is the paper that but a short time since declared that the whigs of the north and the whigs of the south would have to separate unless the latter gave way on the Nebraska bill. Then, however, it spoke mildly, kindly, persuasively. How different now are its tones and its language! It says:

"The north will not be quiet under this great wrong. The people of the north will not remain calm while slavery is moving onward with giant strides. They will raise the bat-tle cry of repeal. They will hurl into return-less oblivion the traitors who betrayed them. They will erect a wall of brass against slavery. No State, whether from the west or the south, whether carved out of territory already belonging to the Union, or acquired by conquest or purchase, can ever come into the confederacy with a Constitution recognizing slavery. The war against that institution will not cease until there is nothing left against which to strike. It will sweep away the Nebraska bill; it will sweep away the fugitive slave law; it will abolish slavery in the District of Columbia; it will do all this, and whatever more can be done without invading the literal guarantees of the Constitution. The endangering of the Union will excite no terror. Its dissolution even will not prevent the progress of the war. The north loves the Union, and will stand by it always, but they hate slavery, and will not, even for the quiet of the Union, see it cast its shadow of desolation over territory consecrated by solemn compacts to freedom."

This is the paper that asks the aid and cooperation of the whigs of the south. Are there any who can act with it? Are there any who will help it to sweep away all the vestiges of slavery? Are there any who, like it, would run the risk of a dissolution of the Union in order to compass that object?

It is a subject of rejoicing to the patriot that the legislation of this country, and the destinies of this country, are not yet in the hands of abolitionists and destructives. They are in the hands of the most desperate and memorable combats on record, at thirty-two years of age. Hull conquered the fourtiers at thirty-eight. Decaure burnt the the opinion that it is both the part of duty and of good policy to welcome it into the great family of nations. We are glad that Senator Douglas has taken the matter in hand, and hope that the young and growing republic of Dominica will receive at our hands the same courtesy and the same kindness that were extended to us in our infancy.

The Albany Argus, one of the ablest and most influential of the hard organs, in an article written a short time before it was ap-Messrs. Clayton, Benjamin, and Seward, were prised of the passage of the Nebraska bill, says: "This journal was the first, we believe, in the United States, to call public attention to the fact that the territorial organization of the regions lying west of the States of Missouri and Iowa, would, from the nature of things, involve the question of re-affirming or superseding the unwise, if not unconstitutional, restriction upon popular sovereignty contained in the 'act preparatory to the admission of Missouri.' Intimating a decided opinion that the Missouri 'compromise' was identically the same thing as the 'Wilmot proviso,' we did not conceal a desire to see the federal legislature retrace the steps it had erroneously taken, at a period when a mere temporary expedient had been substituted for an eternal and sound principle -the democratic principle of self-government. We have seen no reason to change our opinion.

"We believe the democratic party of the Union-of which the national democracy of this State is a portion-to be fully and honestly committed to the non-intervention and popular sovereignty doctrine of the compromise measures of 1850; and that, upon that the southern democrats voted for the bill. We principle, the party is, in the end, destined to triumph.'

The Argus also says that it would regret seeing democrats among the opponents of the bill on its final vote. It thinks there is nothing in the circumstances surrounding the bill to justify democrats in abandoning a democratic

THE PENNSYLVANIA DELEGATION

The democratic delegation from the good old Keystone State have covered themselves with glory. That delegation consists of twenty-five members. Of these sixteen are democrats and nine whigs. None of the whig members voted for the bill, whilst eleven out of the sixteen democrats voted in its favor. The names of these eleven are as follows:

Samuel A. Bridges, John L. Dawson, Thoma B. Florence, J. Glancey Jones, William H. Kurtz, John McNair, Asa Packer, John Robbins, jr., Christian M. Straub, Wm. H. Witte, and Hendrick B. Wright.

Some of the most effective speeches made in behalf of the bill were made by members of this delegation. The good old State and her noble democracy challenge the respect and the admiration of all true-hearted democrats.

Bill. Of the thirty members from the New England States, two were absent or had paired off, twenty-five voted against, and only three in favor of the bill. The names of these three deserve to be written in letters of gold. They are Messrs. McDonald, of Maine; HIBBARD, of New Hampshire, and INGERSOLL, of Connec-

Indiana.

Indiana is not behind any of the free States. Out of her eleven representatives seven voted for the Nebraska bill. Those seven are as follows: Messrs. Davis, Dunham, Eddy, English, Hendricks, Lane, and Miller.

SENATOR MALLORY'S REPORT ON NAVAL AFFAIRS.

We have read, with much pleasure, the very interesting report of Mr. Mallory, chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affiairs, which together with the bill accompanying it, has already been mentioned in our Congressional reports. As a commentary-a striking practical commentary-on some of the defects of the service, and as an evidence of the absolute necessity for reform, we take from Senator Mallory's report a few extracts speaking of the blind regard for seniority in the navy.

"Apart from all other considerations, the present system tends to check the ardor and to deaden the ambition of the whole corps, by susdeaden the ambition of the whole corps, by sustaining and perpetuating injustice. A seaman's ability to play a seaman's part depends much, very much, upon his sea service; and had we a naval contest to-morrow, the common sense of the country would not tolerate the appointment of any man to active service who was not familiar, and thoroughly familiar, with the handling of ships and fleets under all circumstances. Yet we find from the returns before us that out of sixty-eight cantains fartu-time are waiting orders on shore, at captains forty-two are waiting orders on shore, at a salary of $2,500 per annum. (six of whom were severally last at sea in 1816, '28, '31, '34, '38, and 39.) making an aggregate of $105,000. "Of ninety-eight commanders, (seven of whom were last respectivly at sea in 1815, '29, '29, '33, '34, '36, and '38,) there are waiting orders forty-two, at $1,500 per annum—an aggregate of $76,000.

"Of three hundred and twenty-six lieutenants, there are waiting orders fifty-nine, at $1,200 making an aggregate of $70,800.

"Of one hundred and ninety-eight passed midshipmen, there are but eight waiting orders at $600-$4,500.

"And that while there are seven captains and commanders who have been each forty-one years in the navy, and who are now receiving respectively $2,500 and $1,800 and yet have seen less than ten years' sea service, there are forty-three passed midshipmen who have seen over ten years' sea service, and who are receiving but $700 per an-

the hands of the great democracy of the nation, who never yet have faltered.

They are in the Guerriere at thirty-eight. Decatur burnt the Philadelphia at twenty-seven. Perry conquered on Lake Eric at twenty eight, and McDonough on Lake Camplain at thirty-one. Stewart captured the Cyane and Levant at thirty-nine, and Bain-SENATOR DOUGLAS AND THE ISLAND bridge the Java at thirty-one. The youngest victor was twenty-seven, and the oldest but thirtynine, and thirty-three was their avarage age—less than that of many of our passed midshipmen.

"A just distinction should be made between the gallant old seaman, whose soul is still in his profession, and whose heart beats but for his country, but who is disqualified by long, faithful, and honpublic of Dominica, and of opening diplomatic intercourse with the same."

Our readers will no doubt remember that we have in several numbers of the Sentinel called attention to the condition of this island, and endeavored to demonstrate that internation—in passing the best of his days upon shore—the al comity, aswell as the mutual advantage of the two republics of the United States and Dominica, demand a recognition by our country of the independence of that island.

It has maintained its government for some years; it is prosperous; it is a republic, and it is a part of this continent; and from all the lights before us, we do not hesitate to express midshipmen, from twenty-one to thirty-seven years of age; in the youngest of whom is fifty-six years of age; ninety-seven commanders, seventy-four of whom are between fifty and fifty-five, and the youngest of whom is forty-six; three hundred and twenty-seven lieutenants, from thirty to fifty; one hundred and ninety-eight passed midshipmen, from twenty-one to thirty-seven years of age.

"Your committee, after carefully examining the rates of promotion in the several grades, and the average age of officers, find that under the present system lieutenants when promoted to com-manders will be fifty-three, and commanders, when promoted to captains, seventy-four years of

The Water-Works.-The House of Repre entatives, yesterday, in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, the deficiency bill being under consideration, refused to agree to the Senate's amendment appropriating $500,000 for the continu ance of the works for supplying the cities of Washing and Georgetown with water from the Great Falls of the Potomac. The question, however, is not definitely disposed of, for the House will have to vote on concurring in the action of the com mittee; and, even should it be rejected by that body, it will be a subject of conference between the two Houses.

As this matter is of great importance to our citi zens, it may be interesting to learn that a company, recently formed, are now engaged in making surveys, plans, etc., for supplying water to the District of Columbia. They have marked out a new route from the Little Falls, and propose making use of newly invented hydraulic machinery of immense power, and likewise a new kind of pipe, of superior quality and durability. They calculate to furnish water at as high an elevation, and in as great abundance, and as cheap, or cheaper, as in any plan yet offered. Congress will, we learn, soon be made acquainted with the plan of opera tion. All we can say is, "Gentlemen, show your water by your works."

Locomotives .- We have heretofore repeatedly noticed, from time to time, the moving through our streets, on a portable railway, of sundry loc notive engines and tenders, from the works of Smith and Perkins, of Alexandria, Virginia, on heir way to the railroad station, thence to be ransported to Pennsylvania. Yesterday, we saw large and beautifully constructed locomotive from the same establishment, one of five ordered for the coal trade on the Baltimore and Ohio rail-

It is with pleasure that we refer to these evidences of the enterprise and skill of mechanics in this section of the country. The fact shows that the south can, if they will, enter not only largely but successfully upon manufacturing pursuits which must be adequately compensated, and, as consequence, appreciated in other sections of the

The Eclipse.-We learn that extensive preparations have been made by the coast survey office, extending from Maine to the western part of Texas, and along the coast of California, to observe the annular eclipse, on Friday next, in all its phases: also at the Smithsonian Institution, the National Observatory, and Georgetown College. A map of the track of the eclipse has been published by the Smithsonian Institution and directors of the Nau-

Gold Fish.-Every one who visits the Capitol grounds, seeems to regard the gold fish in the several pools as not among the least attractive while those little beauties thrive around the naval his monument, they sicken in the eastern basin, and "die in spring-time when all is bright around." The reason for this is supposed to be the poisoning of the water by buds of the linden, buckeye, and elm trees in that vicinity. Yesterday, a number of the fish, almost inanimate, were transferred to the western pool, where, in the course of a few hours, they became as lively and vigorous, apparently, as their new companions. Not only gold fish, but natives of the Potomac cannot live in the eastern basin except during the autumn and winter

Little Falls Bridge.-The House of Repre. sentatives, yesterday, concurred in the Senate's amendment to the deficiency bill, appropriating $75,000 for the completion of the bridge across the Potomac river at Little Falls, and painting thereof, agreeably to the plan adopted under the direction of the President of the United States, with a proviso that the work shall be performed under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, by a competent civil engineer, according to a plan the cost of which shall not exceed the sum now appropriated.

Female Generosity.-Ladies of the Island, sympathizing with Mr. George Elliot in the loss, by theft, of a beautiful banner, on the occasion of his first effort to ascend with his balloon, have informed that gentleman of their intention to present him with a national flag to supply its place Mr. Elliot, doubtless feels himself honored by this manifestation of the kind regards of the ladies of the "garden spot" of the metropolis.

Balloon Ascension.-Papers are in circulation soliciting subscriptions to defray the expenses of Mr. George Elliott in making another balloon ascension in this city. The time fixed is the first Tuesday in June, the day after the municipal elec-

Death of Col. A. B. Chambers.-It is with sincere sorrow and sympathy for his family, that we announce the death of Colonel Chambers, of the Republican. He expired yesterday at eight o'clock, of internal inflamation, as we have been informed. There were few men who had such personal popularity, or whose manners and conpersonal popularity, or whose manners and conduct, in public and private relations so deserved it. The Republican itself is a monument to his talent, energy, and business capacity. If a warm partisan, he was also a consistent politician, and a generous opponent. We close this brief obituary by again expressing our sorrow at his decease.—St. Louis Democrat.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN WORCESTER, MASS. We learn from the Worcester Spy that that city was the scene of much excitement last evening, on account of the re-appearance in the h-house by the police. Quite a large crowd collected about the watch-house, and began making boisterous demonstrations. A stone was also thrown through the police office window. The crowd removed to the where they were addressed by Dexter F. Parker and some others, in favor of Orr. Subse quently they returned to the lock-up, and were ordered to disperse by the city marshal, but they refused to do so, and the riot act was read by the mayor. This had no effect, and several arrests were made. What followed is thus reated by the Spy:

"Finding the crowd by no means disposed to heed the authority of the chief magistrate, and a portion of it evidently disposed to dis pute the ground with the police, the mayor or dered out the City Guards, and at about half past 9 o'clock that company appeared upon the ground, armed and equipped, and reported themselves ready for service. They were posted upon the sidewalk in front of the police office, and having loaded their pieces with ball-cartridges, in presence of the crowd, the mayor again, in the name of the Commonwealth, requested all good citizens to retire to their homes.

"As little disposition was shown to heed the commands of the mayor, two detachments of police officers and citizens, headed by City Marshal Baker and High Sheriff Richardson, commenced making arrests. Sheriff Richardson spoke civilly to a man named Wm. Hemple, who was standing on the sidewalk, asking him to go home; the only response to this intimation was a severe blow upon the head of the sheriff with a stone, which Hemple held in his hand. The sheriff seized the offender, who made a desperate resistance, but he was speed ily secured, and locked up. Eight or ten others were arrested, but by eleven o'clock order reigned, and when we went home at midnight, all was quiet in the streets, and the military were quartered in the City Hall."

The city authorities of Worcester are en titled to much credit for their prompt action in preserving the peace of the city. that the poor fanatic who is the cause of all this excitement, will now find a home in the State institution in Worcester, where, under the kind care of Dr. Chandler, he may be restored
